

Professor Kerry Landman is an applied mathematician committed to cross-disciplinary research. She has worked in the USA at MIT, the EPA and SMU. Back in Melbourne Australia, she was a consultant before joining the University of Melbourne. Kerry was the Director of the Australian Mathematics-in-Industry Study Group. Since 2003 she has collaborated with developmental biologists.